

The Assembly of First Nations invites you to the National First Nations Cannabis Summit

March 28-29, 2019

The Westin Bayshore Hotel
1601 Bayshore Drive
Vancouver, British Columbia

NFNCS SNPNC
National First Nations Cannabis Summit
Sommet national des Premières Nations sur le cannabis

The Summit will host plenary sessions, workshop and dialogue sessions to facilitate communications and coordinate dialogue with First Nations to better consider implications related to the legalization of cannabis.

Who should attend:

- Chiefs or their representatives in the health, economic, legal and social development sectors
- First Nations organizations and technicians working or interested in First Nations and the cannabis policy landscape
- Industry, academia and other non-governmental entities involved or interested in First Nations and cannabis issues
- Provincial/Federal Government representatives involved in cannabis issues

The Summit is an opportunity to hear updates and engage in dialogue on key issues towards policy considerations, awareness building and recommendations as it relates to cannabis and First Nations jurisdiction, safety, health, social development, and the economy.
